By their very nature, Non-Formal Education (NFE) programmes remain locally specific and varied in their content and concerns. As a result, information on the progress made towards the goal of Education for All (EFA) through NFE programmes and their innovative ideas and actions has difficult to access. NFE providers in Nepal were facing problems due to the lack information exchange. Though working in the same area, there was little knowledge of one another's programmes. Thus, the need to share and forge partnership for an effective implementation of all such programmes was felt equally by the educators, policy makers and implementers. Hence, Non-Formal Education Center (NFEC), Ministry of Education and Sports, in close consultation with UNESCO office in Kathmandu and technical support of Research Center for Educational Innovation and Development (CERID) initiated the task to prepare an inventory of all Non-Formal Education Providers in Nepal.

The main objective behind the preparation of this inventory of NFE providers was to identify related NGOs and INGOs involved in the field , and to provide a basis which will help to expand networking and linkages among these organizations. Both the NFEC and CERID have successfully executed this much needed action and thereby contributed towards establishing an effective coordination and collaboration mechanism among the policy makers, experts, researchers and organizations involved in literacy and Non-Formal Education programme in Nepal.

On behalf of UNESCO Office in Kathmandu, I would like to express my sincere appreciation to NFEC and CERID for their support extended towards preparing this inventory. I hope that this will result in the formation of a strong network of concerned stakeholders to identify and strengthen the non-formal education/literacy practices in Nepal.

Koto Kanno
UNESCO Representative to Nepal

Acknowledgements

Nepal has witnessed a rapid numerical expansion of NGOs which, invariably, has supported community empowerment. Empowerment is basically understood as transforming power relations prevalent in the society. In other words, it seeks to build the capacity of people, specifically of those who are disadvantaged and marginalized, to gain control over forces affecting their existence. NGOs' efforts seem to have geared themselves to this direction but the substance and meaning of these efforts have yet to be heightened. For this, professional partnership built on the ground of mutual sharing is equally crucial. This can be possible only when NGOs are linked to each other through a strong networking. Networking becomes arduous if we lack an understanding of concerned organizations. And, to get to know them it is necessary to have their profiles available.

Since a systematic data base of NFE-related organizations in Nepal is almost non-existent, it is a prime need to develop an inventory of NFE in Nepal. To address this need UNESCO Office in Kathmandu commissioned a project to CERID. Within the time given, CERID was able to prepare a list of 242 NFE organizations and develop only an inventory of 80 organizations at this stage. It seems that to give a complete shape to this task it is necessary to continue collecting data using different strategies. I would like to affirm that CERID will not be unwilling to undertake this task in the future.

I feel I should appreciate UNESCO Office in Kathmandu, especially Ms. Koto Kanno, UNESCO Country Representative and Mr. Tap Raj Pant, National Program Officer for their timely initiative to make this project happen. I also would like to commend Mr. Hari Bole Khanal, Director of NFEC/HMG and Mr. Chandra Mani Adhikari, Under-Secretary of Social Welfare Council (SWC) for providing important ideas with respect to shaping the inventory in this form. Finally, I would like to thank my colleagues and staff members at CERID for their untiring efforts for the production of this inventory.

Dr. Hridaya Ratna Bajracharya
Executive Director, CERID

Acknowledgements

The commitment of Dakar Framework of Action in reducing illiteracy forms an integral part of Nepal Education for All National Plan of Action 2001-2015. Literacy and non-formal education programs are locally specific and varied in their contents to serve the multi-dimensional needs of concerned stakeholders. In this regard, Non-Formal Education Providers in Nepal need adequate and consolidated information on the progress made towards achieving the goals of literacy and non-formal education along with innovative ideas and actions in order to share and disseminate knowledge to wider audiences.

The preparation of an inventory of Non-Formal Education providers was the long felt need of all sectors i.e. GOs, NGOs and INGOs in order to throw light on how these organizations conduct their activities to meet their objectives and contribute towards accelerating literacy and non-formal education.

Hence, Non-Formal Education Center (NFEC) in collaboration with UNESCO Office in Kathmandu and technical support of Research Center for Educational Innovation and Development (CERID) initiated the task to prepare the 'Inventory of Non-Formal Education Providers in Nepal' with a view to identifying related organizations involved in literacy and non-formal education and provide a basis to expand networking and linkages among these organizations.

The initial task towards preparing the inventory of non-formal education providers in Nepal focused on the collection and compilation of information related with non-formal education. Additionally, a rapid survey was carried out to assess how far the institutions providing non-formal education share each other's experiences and link their activities for maximizing the outcomes of program implementation. This Inventory contains information of different I/NGOs and GOs that include their name, date of establishment, address, head of the institution, number of staff, sources of funding, major publications, objectives and achievements of the institution.

On behalf of NFEC, I would like to express my sincere appreciation to UNESCO Office in Kathmandu and CERID for their financial and technical contribution for the preparation of this Inventory. I hope this Inventory provides useful information on literacy and non-formal education providers in Nepal, which will be extremely helpful in forming networks of concerned stakeholders to identify and strengthen the non-formal education/literacy practices in Nepal.

An Inventory of Non-Formal Education in Nepal

Background

The pace of NFE expansion in Nepal started in the mid-seventies when CERID launched an innovative project 'education for rural transformation' in Lahachok VDC of Kaski District. Then in the late seventies after reflecting on the positive outcomes of the Lahachok project CERID launched the 'integrated non-formal education project' in five different districts in Nepal. This project was successful specifically in producing substantive learning materials based on contextual needs and in developing learner-centered methodology. These achievements proved to be landmarks paving the way for expeditious operation of NFE activities in Nepal. Consequently, government as well as non-governmental sectors strove to establish NFE delivery structures in such a rapid manner, at a gallop pace. Now we can see thousands of NGOs and several I-NGOs which are involved in NFE programs. Today, in Nepal, there are numerous NGOs and I-NGOs involved in running non-formal education programs. Conceivably, the focus of these programs is on human development with emphasis on fostering human skills in areas such as health, education, social living, awareness building, income generation, civic awareness, human rights, etc. It seems that these organizations have used their own modus operandi to conduct NFE activities. In other words, they hardly tend to accredit the importance of mutual sharing and co-operation, no matter how emphatically they might have expressed the essentiality of mutual partnership -- in words. One of the major reasons in this regard may be that there is very little room for them to know each other. Therefore, a profile stating their backgrounds, objectives, operation methods, worksites, funding sources, nature and composition of participants, achievements, etc. would certainly provide them opportunity to know each other. To get to know each other is certainly a start point paving the way for mutual exchange of support and co-operation in the future. To this end, the initiative taken by UNESCO Country Office Nepal to develop a NFE inventory is a pertinent endeavor. CERID, with the support of UNESCO Country Office Nepal, is conducting this project with focus on the following objective.

Objective

The main objective of the project is to develop an inventory NGOs and I-NGOs involved in NFE activities. The profiles included in this inventory is expected to provide a base on which to expand networking and linkage between various organizations. Since this project is an important initiative, its operation should be advanced with greater impetus and precision for which a systematic data collection approach is essential. With this in view the following strategies were adopted.

Strategies adopted for data collection

A data collection form (questionnaire) (See Appendix 1) was developed after reflecting on the types of data required for developing the profile. A preliminary discussion in this respect was held with the UNESCO Country Representative at the UNESCO Country Office. Later, a draft tool was developed and disseminated to related stakeholders. Taking into consideration the further inputs that were suggested, the final version of the tool was developed.

A two-member field research team including a senior researcher as the project coordinator was formed to explore potential sources of data, to monitor the data collection activity and to systematize the data collected. The research team found it tough to identify right sources of data, since no systematic data base on NFE organizations was in place.

Personal contact was considered appropriate to explore further NFE-related organizations and reach out to them for data collection. Priority was given to studying official records and also to interviewing rather than to leaving the questionnaire with the identified respondent and wait until the data were filled in.

A Research Steering Committee consisting of 5 members was formed with CERID Executive Director as the chairperson. Other committee members included Director of NFEC (HMG), UNESCO representative, SWC (Social Welfare Council) representative and the research coordinator. The rationale behind including a representative from SWC was to get, through his facilitation, easy access to the records of NFE organizations which should be available at SWC, since any NGO or I-NGO that planned to conduct community development activities have to be affiliated with it for which they must submit necessary documents.

In the steering committee meeting held at CERID it was decided that the NFE Center, HMG would put up an advertisement in the media asking all NGOs to furnish details of what they were doing. This might seem worthwhile because the NFE Center, which is the support-providing authority to NFE-related NGOs, would be heeded by them in the expectation of obtaining necessary data and information. This approach will be followed in course of continuing this work in the future.

Data analysis

A total of 242 organizations – 12 I-NGOs and 230 NGOs – were identified. Of them 198 NGOs were identified from the records maintained at SWC. Actually, it is necessary for every NGO to get grant of affiliation from SWC. So the research team, with strenuous efforts, identified from the SWC records most of the important NGOs (36), which are involved in NFE activities. A sort-out of other NGOs from the list will be continued, which it will quite some time. Surprisingly, the SWC recorded only patchy; in other words, they were not complete enough for an inventory. Nevertheless, the research team collected whatever data were available. The identified NGOs will be approached in due course for further collection of data, which will, no doubt, be an arduous and time consuming task. At present the research team has been able to collect data from 80 NGOs and has filled them in the data form (questionnaire).

The CERID research team traced 12 I-NGOS and 68 NGOs out of the total number of 242 and collected data on each item as contained in the data form by interviewing the related institutional heads. Here again the team faced difficulties in obtaining complete data. This situation clearly indicates the poor data management system in these organizations.

These 80 organizations are located in various districts of Mountain, Hill and Terai regions. The Mountain region includes Jumla, Mugu, Kalikot, Mustang, Rasuwa, Humla and Dolakha, the Hill region Salyan, Pyuthan, Rolpa, Rukum, Surkhet, Baglung, Udayapur, Doti, Dadeldhura, Makwanpur, Dhading, Kavre, Sindhupalanchow, Tanahu, Baglung, Nuwakot, Dhanusha, Okhaldhunga, Parbat, Gorkha, Sindhuli, Kaski and Terthum and the Terai region Bardiya, Kailali, Motottari, Kanchanpur, Janakpur, Parsa, Sunsari, Morang, Rautahat, Bara, Siraha, Jhapa, Rupandehi and Sarlahi. Urban areas include Kathmandu and Biratnagar. The following table gives a picture of the location of NGOs and INGOs by region and district.

Forty-six central offices are located in urban areas and district headquarters whereas 34 offices are at the local level (project site). The qualifications of the institutional heads range from Ph. D. to Bachelors degree.

The number of central level staff involved in the project ranges from a minimum of three to a maximum number of 136. At the local level the maximum number stands at 650 -- only one staff in some cases. Financial support to run the activities is provided by various international organizations such as CEDA, IDRC, USC Canada, and Asia Cultural Center for UNESCO, Japan and Rotary International. Also, UN organizations such as UNESCO, UNICEF and UNDP have also provided resources. I-NGOs such as UMN, CEDPA/Nepal, Educate the Children/New York and other private foundations have also provided financial support. Besides, partial financial support is obtained from some potential internal sources.

The objectives of these organizations cover a wide range. Basically, empowerment of disadvantaged and deprived groups is found to be the common objective of these organizations. Since empowerment is a broad concept in which accomplishment of various human development needs is emphasized, the scope of activities, extend wide. Therefore, it is natural that these organizations should have formulated project objectives in a comprehensive manner, which can be categorized broadly as: (1) raising the level of critical awareness of the people on socio-cultural, economic, educational, environmental, and health issues, (2) conducting functional literacy activities with focus on basic life-skills, (3) conducting productive skills development activities for income generation, (4) organizing environmental preservation activities for sustainable development and (5) energizing people to be perceptive concerning human rights and democracy. However, there are some NGOs whose objectives focus on providing educationally deprived children learning opportunities through alternative schooling programs.

Also, there are some other NGOs (3) which are involved in conducting co-curricular and extra-curricular activities for children. (Details of these organizations appear in Appendix 2)

This report also includes a list of 198 NGOs collected from SWC files (See Appendix 3), from which the most relevant ones involved in NFE are being screened.

- To implement development programmes to improve the socio-economic status of poor, oppressed and vulnerable groups in rural areas and prevent degradation of natural resources
- To conduct action-oriented research on relevant socio-economic and environmental issues and incorporate the outcomes in RRNs development programmes and campaigns
- To publish people-oriented educational, advocacy materials and development materials which can be used by the rural poor, field workers and others involved in rural development
- To campaign at the local, national and international levels on the root causes of poverty, human rights violations and other key development issues.

Main Activities carried out in the last 3 years:

- Livelihood: to fight poverty, RRN's programs included areas such as sustainable agriculture and social forestry, kitchen gardening, livestock rearing, Rural Micro Finance, and income generation.
- Education: to combat illiteracy and empower people to get access to their rights, RRN conducted child and adult education programs. For adult basic literacy: post-literacy, legal literacy and functional training activities. Similarly, under the child education program: child literacy, OSP, ECD, early child hood development, parenting education, vocational training, formal schooling support, and bridging of non-formal and formal education

- Health: to prevent diseases
RRN's activities under this component included training for traditional birth attendants (TBAs) and village health volunteers training in health education, primary health care and child delivery care, general health check-up (by outreach/mobile health clinics), immunization, nutrition, sanitation, latrine construction and supply of safe drinking water
- Self-governance: to overcome civic inertia
This component included awareness-raising (through analyzing problems, potentials, opportunities and constraints), capacity building (through management, leadership and technical skills training), and networking peoples' organizations.
